Introduction

The very first reference to our small and charming hotel, The Meteor Plaza, is from 1307 when it was known as The White Lion. An unfortunate fire destroyed all later information. This landmark was a well-known retreat for travelers just outside a city gate presently known as the Powder Gate. In past times when these gates were closed at dusk, The White Lion was a very popular hostelry. Later in the 17th century, the son of the Empress Maria Teresa, who later became Emperor Josef II, spent a night here and in his honor this charming house's name was changed to The City of Vienna.

Hotel Location

Today the White Lion is the Best Western Meteor Plaza Hotel. It is ideally situated directly in the center of Prague next to a most famous art nouveau landmark: The Prague Municipal House (Obecni Dum). You can easily reach Wenceslas Square, Old Town Square, the legendary Royal Road (Charles Way), and other fascinating places of interest on foot in minutes. Additionally the excellent Prague public transport system of Metro (underground), trams and buses make movement about the city very fast and convenient. All facilities are only a minute walk from the hotel.
